Methods used

Cooperative Language Learning

Cooperative Language Learning is based on the practice of the language in real-life situations, using many different classroom environments. (In the classroom, outside of the class, on the FL Online platform, on the Mooo offered by FL).

The use of all the teaching technologies and methodologies available creates a complete experience with a full support for the learner.

	Traditional Language Teaching	Cooperative Language Learning
Learners' position	Passive learner	Active participation and autonomous
Teachers' position	Control, judge and assist. Centre of the methodology.	Organiser and counselor: Facilitator of the communication for the group.
Activities and Interactions	Knowledge recall, role play, phrasal pattern practice. Mainly teacher - student interaction.	Group work engaging learners in communication, and interaction. Mainly participants' interaction.
Learners' expectations	Main goal is the individual final evaluation. Not the group progress.	All members contribute to the success of the group. Individual learning is part of the group progress.

Assessment modality

Evaluation before the arrival

France Langue has set up an online level test, to be carried out before your arrival, in order to assess your knowledge of written comprehension and production. This test will be completed by an oral interview on the first day of classes to:

- Ensure that written skills are in line with the oral level
- Better identify your appetites and objectives
- Then place you in a class adapted to your level and your needs

Evaluation throughout your stay

Every Friday at France Langue, the teacher will check that you have acquired and understood the new skills seen during the week. Once you have completed a level, you will take a mock DELF / DALF exam to confirm your move to the next level up. At the end of your stay, we will issue you a certificate "End of session" addressing the number of hours spent following courses and the level you have reached.

Most of France Langue schools are exam centers, at any given time you can ask to take an official French exam in order to evaluate and certify your level of French.

In addition, you benefit from a weekly tutoring session to review notions not yet mastered in the four skills (written and oral comprehension and production), as well as tailor-made support that allows you to go further in your learning of the French language and culture by working on your educational, personal and professional objectives and needs.
